As many schools are currently looking to employ newly graduated teachers, I'd like to take this opportunity to update you on the registration of graduates for the 2016 school year. Unfortunately there have been media reports stating that there is a backlog of graduate applications. This is not correct.

As of Friday 22 January 2016, the Institute has registered over 3000 graduates ready for the start of the first term. We continue to approve applications as soon as we receive any outstanding requirements.

There are some graduates whose registration is yet to be completed. There can be several reasons for this, which include:

The graduate has just lodged their application

We are still having graduates attend our offices this week to lodge new applications for registration. While we will do what we can to prioritise these applications, there are processes – such as the National Police History Check conducted by an external agency that can take up to 20 working days to complete – that impact on processing times.

The applicant has not provided the required documents

If the applicant does not provide correctly certified documents their application cannot progress to registration. We are continuing to contact applicants about any outstanding requirements they have.

The higher education provider has not yet provided evidence of completion of the qualification

This could be because the student has not completed all of the course, not provided consent for Evidence of Completion to be provided directly to the Institute, failed a subject or may have other outstanding requirements, e.g. fines, that until paid will result in non-issuing of results.

How to check if a graduate is registered

If the graduate is yet to receive their registration card you can check online at <http://www.vit.vic.edu.au/search-the-register/nocache>. Once they appear on the register, they are registered and can teach. Registration cards can take a few weeks to be delivered.

We have also established a dedicated contact address for any graduate who is concerned that they are not yet registered. Please encourage them to contact us on graduates@vit.vic.edu.au

If you have any questions, please call the Principals' Hotline on 1300 650 375, and we wish your newly graduated teachers a smooth transition into the profession in 2016.
